

Atheism and agnosticism: fill in the blanks activity

Somebody who does not believe in a god is called an _____. Somebody who does not believe we can know whether a god exists or not is called an _____.

The simplest reason why somebody might not believe in a god is because he or she doesn't see any reason or _____ to believe in one. In the past many people used religion and their belief in gods to answer questions about the natural world. Today, many of those questions have been answered by _____. Many atheists believe that we can lead good, happy, and meaningful lives without the need to believe in a god. Many of these people call themselves _____.

There is a great deal of _____ in the world, and this makes many atheists find it hard to believe in an all-powerful and all-good god. They ask why a good god would allow suffering to exist if he could stop it. Many atheists accept that they cannot _____ that there is no god, but they do not think that is a good reason to believe in one. They don't believe that a god created human beings. They believe that gods are a human _____.

prove	suffering	agnostic	science
evidence	atheist	invention	humanists

Atheism and agnosticism: fill in the blanks activity (answers)

Somebody who does not believe in a god is called an atheist. Somebody who does not believe we can know whether a god exists or not is called an agnostic.

The simplest reason why somebody might not believe in a god is because he or she doesn't see any reason or evidence to believe in one. In the past many people used religion and their belief in gods to answer questions about the natural world. Today, many of those questions have been answered by science. Many atheists believe that we can lead good, happy, and meaningful lives without the need to believe in a god. Many of these people call themselves humanists.

There is a great deal of suffering in the world, and this makes many atheists find it hard to believe in an all-powerful and all-good god. They ask why a good god would allow suffering to exist if he could stop it. Many atheists accept that they cannot prove that there is no god, but they do not think that is a good reason to believe in one. They don't believe that a god created human beings. They believe that gods are a human invention.

prove	suffering	agnostic	science
evidence	atheist	invention	humanists