

Human beings: humanist responses

How might a humanist respond to these statements?

- 1) Human beings can do so many amazing things that we must have been created with a special purpose.

- 2) Science hasn't answered all our questions about where we come from, so we need to turn to religion to explain our origins.

- 3) Human beings are nothing but trouble. We have only made things worse and will continue to do so in the future.
