

The one life: Fill in the blanks activity

Humanists believe that this is the _____ life we have. They believe we should try to find what makes us _____ and support other people to do the same. The _____ is a symbol of humanism used by humanist organisations all around the world. For humanists it is about celebrating being human – celebrating our potential for happiness and celebrating what human beings can do.

There is no one single _____ to the question of what makes a happy life. Happiness can be found in relationships with others, creativity, curiosity, achieving our goals, and helping to make the world a better place.

Many humanists believe that everyone should have the _____ and opportunity to find happiness. We should not let others decide how we must live. We should be the authors of our own lives. We should, however, avoid causing _____ to others or restricting their freedom.

Freedom brings with it a _____. Many humanists believe we should think carefully about our choices and the impact they have on other people, animals, and the planet. Freedom also requires us to be _____ of different people's alternative life choices as long as they cause no harm. Many humanists believe it is a good thing that we all have different tastes and talents as it leads to a _____ and interesting society from which we all benefit.

Many people around the world are not free to choose how they live. Many do not have the right conditions to lead happy lives. For many humanists, this can be a _____ to work to create a world in which everyone has the opportunity to find happiness and fulfilment in the here and now.

freedom	happy	motivation	diverse	one
responsibility	tolerant	Happy Human	answer	harm

The one life: Fill in the blanks activity

Humanists believe that this is the one life we have. They believe we should try to find what makes us happy and support other people to do the same. The Happy Human is a symbol of humanism used by humanist organisations all around the world. For humanists it is about celebrating being human – celebrating our potential for happiness and celebrating what human beings can do.

There is no one single answer to the question of what makes a happy life. Happiness can be found in relationships with others, creativity, curiosity, achieving our goals, and helping to make the world a better place.

Many humanists believe that everyone should have the freedom and opportunity to find happiness. We should not let others decide how we must live. We should be the authors of our own lives. We should, however, avoid causing harm to others or restricting their freedom.

Freedom brings with it a responsibility. Many humanists believe we should think carefully about our choices and the impact they have on other people, animals, and the planet. Freedom also requires us to be tolerant of different people's alternative life choices as long as they cause no harm. Many humanists believe it is a good thing that we all have different tastes and talents as it leads to a diverse and interesting society from which we all benefit.

Many people around the world are not free to choose how they live. Many do not have the right conditions to lead happy lives. For many humanists, this can be a motivation to work to create a world in which everyone has the opportunity to find happiness and fulfilment in the here and now.

freedom	happy	motivation	diverse	one
responsibility	tolerant	Happy Human	answer	harm