

Society: Fill in the blanks activity

Humanists believe that human beings alone are _____ for making the world a better place. They believe we need to work for a happier and _____ world in the here and now.

We are all human beings with many _____ needs, interests, and feelings. Many humanists support human _____. That means recognising that we are all human beings first and focussing on what we share, rather than on our differences. This can help us to see that we should treat people _____.

Many humanists believe we should promote _____, fairness, and _____. Freedom means we should all be free to choose what we believe and how we live. Fairness means we should treat everyone equally, regardless of their gender, skin colour, sexuality, religion or belief, or disabilities. And kindness means we should treat other people with warmth and respect and try to live together _____. Many humanists support _____. These are international laws that can support people to live freely and equally.

Many humanists believe we have made significant _____ towards a fairer and better world but there is still much work to be done.

freedom	responsible	progress	equally	shared
kindness	solidarity	human rights	fairer	peacefully

Society: Fill in the blanks activity

Humanists believe that human beings alone are responsible for making the world a better place. They believe we need to work for a happier and fairer world in the here and now.

We are all human beings with many shared needs, interests, and feelings. Many humanists support human solidarity. That means recognising that we are all human beings first and focussing on what we share, rather than on our differences. This can help us to see that we should treat people equally.

Many humanists believe we should promote freedom, fairness, and kindness. Freedom means we should all be free to choose what we believe and how we live. Fairness means we should treat everyone equally, regardless of their gender, skin colour, sexuality, religion or belief, or disabilities. And kindness means we should treat other people with warmth and respect and try to live together peacefully. Many humanists support human rights. These are international laws that can support people to live freely and equally.

Many humanists believe we have made significant progress towards a fairer and better world but there is still much work to be done.

freedom	responsible	progress	equally	shared
kindness	solidarity	human rights	fairer	peacefully