

Understanding the world: humanist responses

How might a humanist respond to these statements?

- 1) Science does not give us certainty so there's no point even trying to answer questions about the world.

- 2) There are still many things we can't explain so there must be a mysterious, supernatural side to reality

- 3) We need religion to answer the questions that science can't answer.

